The scenes of yesterday are gone, yet Marietta relives its past with historic places which play a part in the present.

A) The present county courthouse, built in 1902, marks the sight of the original courthouse built in 1800. At present the courthouse does not house the county jail as did the two previous structures.

B) The forty-seven year old "Becky Thatcher," brought to the banks of the Muskingum River by the Ohio Showboat Drama, Inc., restores the riverboat-showboat scene of yesteryear.

C) Mrs. William Mills, born in one of the buildings that now forms the Besty Mills Complex, started a club in 1898 as a sewing class for young girls. Today the club serves females of all ages and contains a tea room and public dining area.

D) Mound Cemetery, named for the thirty feet high mound it encompasses, contains the graves of twenty-four officers of the American Revolution.

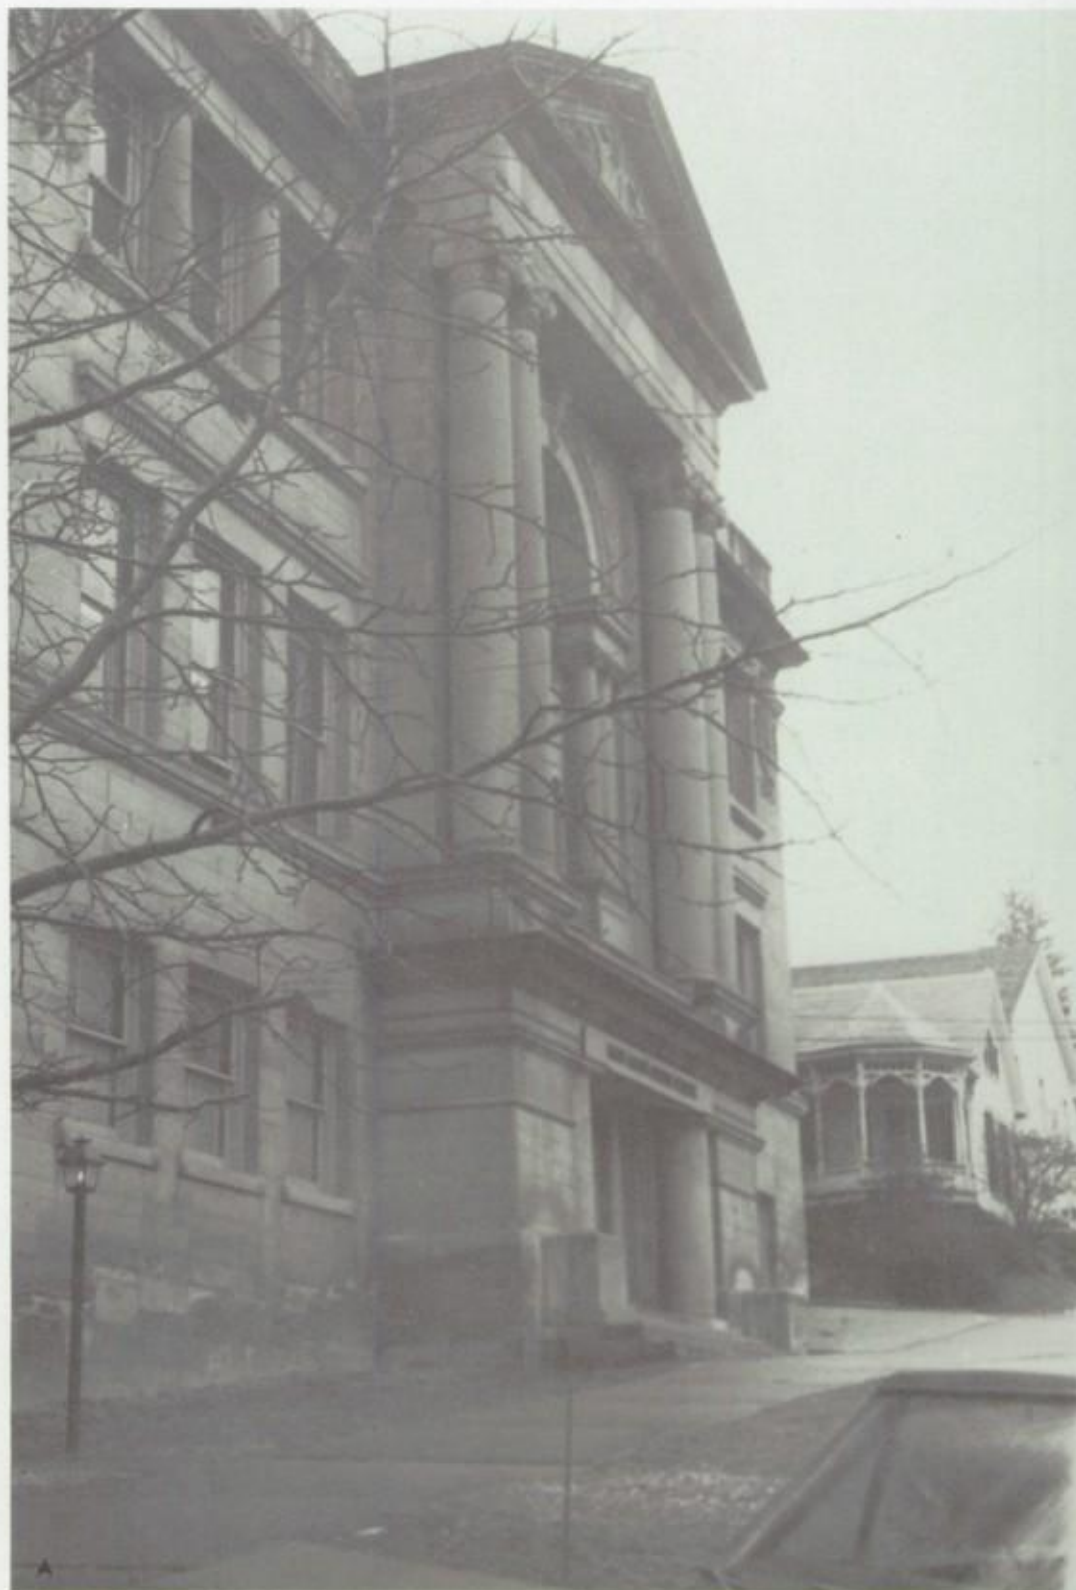

E) About 1850, from bricks manufactured at the nearby Cisler Brick Yard, Louis Goebel built what is now the Marie Antoinette Nursing Home, located at 400 7th Street.

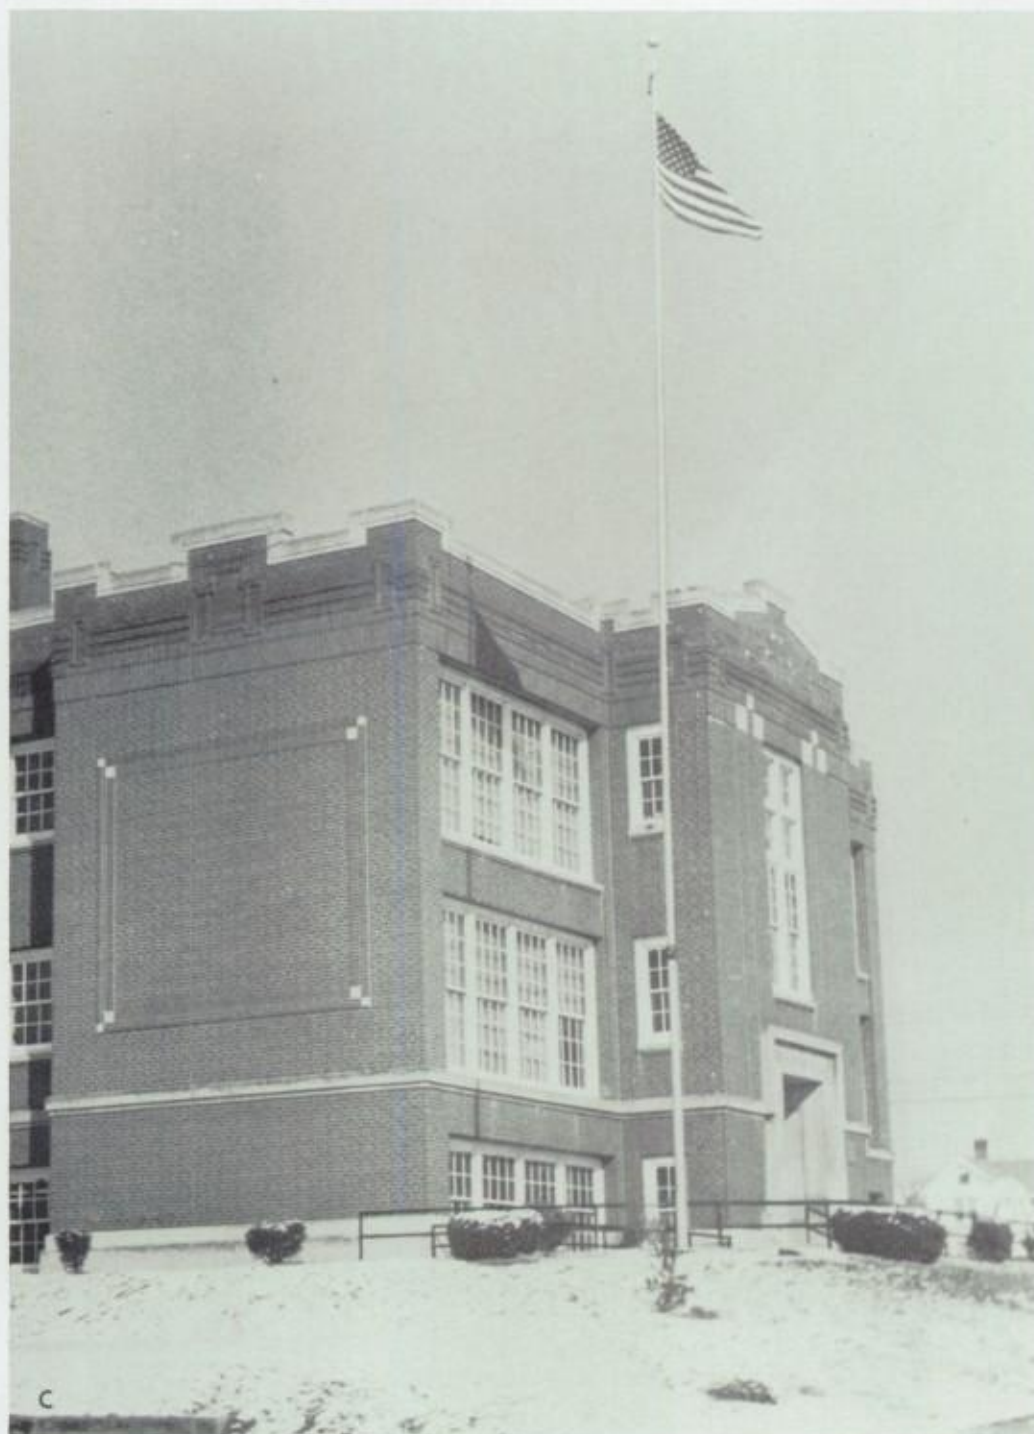

The motto of the Marietta City School System comes from this section of the Northwest Ordinance of 1787:

"Religion, morality, and knowledge, being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

Prompted by this passage and another section of the ordinance which required each township to devote 1/16 of its area to education, Marietta has erected four high schools and over 20 elementary schools since 1788.

- A) This building, now serving as St. Mary's Middle School, housed Marietta High School from 1901 to 1926.
- B) Standing at the corner of Third and Scammel Streets, this building served as Putnam School in the early 1900's.
- C) Built in 1912, Washington Elementary School stands on a site which has sported a school for over 100 years.
- D) The present Marietta Junior High became the third high school in 1926.

Staff

MR. BETT CHANGES POST

A) Although new to MSHS, Louis Bett previously held other offices in the school system. He acted as director of secondary education and as principal of MJHS.

B) As disciplinarian, Jack Powell concerned himself with student behavior.

C) Board of Education members were ROW 1: Harry Laing, Donna Biehl, Richard Hayes. ROW 2: Roger Patterson, Diane Mitchell.

D) Lantz Hinson served his second year as superintendent of Marietta City Schools.

Heading the administration was Mr. Lantz Hinson, Superintendent, who oversaw and co-ordinated staff and academic programs. Principal Bett performed similar duties within MSHS. Assistant Principal Powell was responsible primarily for student discipline.

Elected by the citizens, school board members served as representatives of the people to direct the affairs of the district. Through regular monthly meetings and less formal study sessions, they attempted to provide broad goals and policies based on citizen input.

GUIDANCE COUNSELORS SHARE STUDENT PROBLEMS

A) In November Olaf O'Dell replaced Charles Milhoan as junior guidance counselor.

B) Phyllis Wells helped seniors plan their future.

C) Although shown here with senior Margaret Fitzgerald, Rhoda Triplett served as guidance counselor for the sophomore class.

C) Debbie Baumgard took advantage of the resource material located in the guidance library.

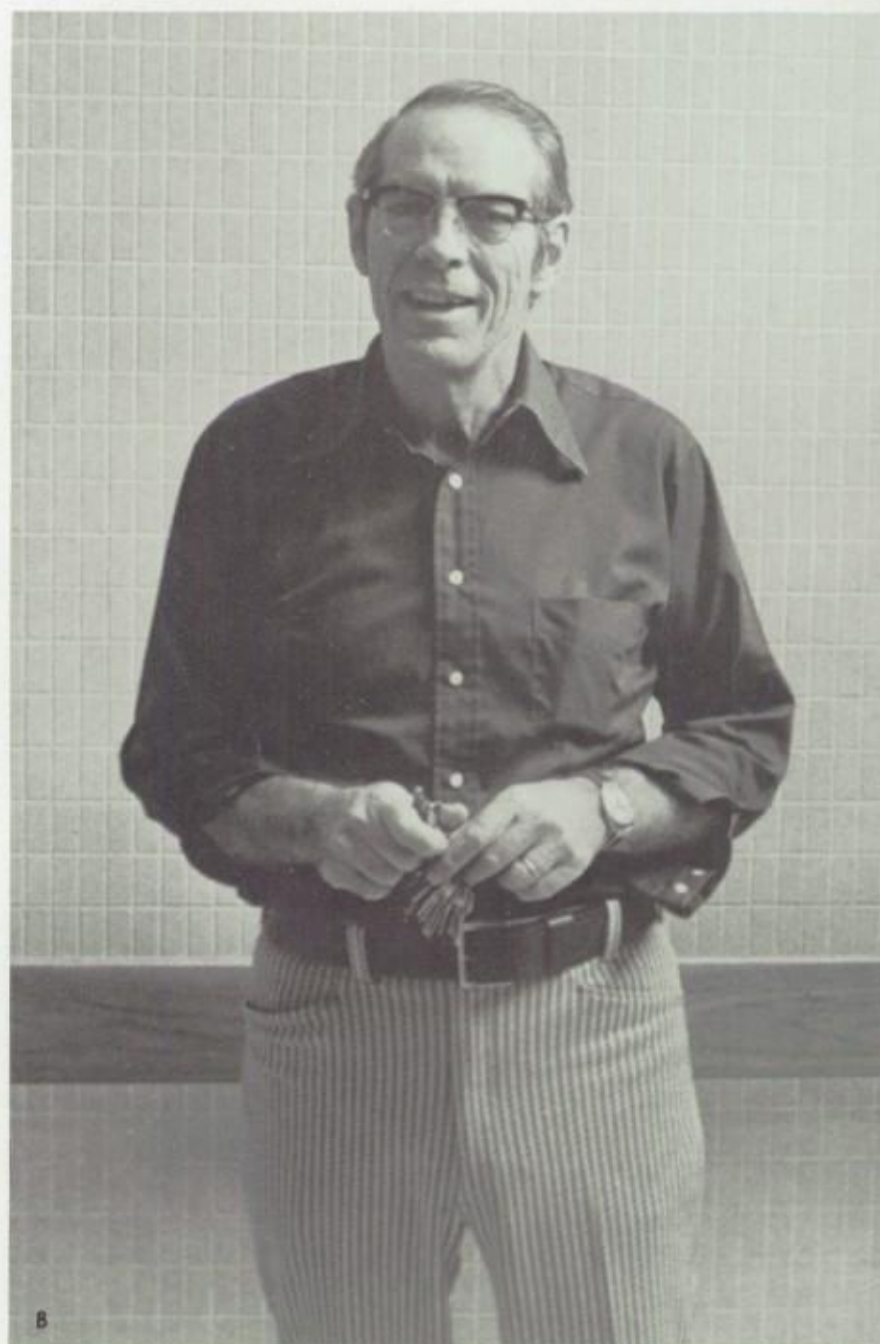

The guidance department provided three major benefits for the students during the year. The first, Alumni Day, held in cooperation with the National Honor Society, gave students a chance to talk to former M.S.H.S. grads about their colleges. In cooperation with Marietta College, juniors and seniors with a 3.0 cumulative average could, at a reduced fee, enroll in a course for credit. In March, the guidance department held a college day for juniors where admissions representatives from about thirty colleges, universities, and technical schools met with all students from the county high schools.

Despite the fact that vending machines replaced the hot lunch program, the cafeteria hostesses still had many duties to perform. Instead of serving meals to the students, they refilled the various machines, made change, checked prices and repaired broken machines. In addition, they counted food from the Automatic Vending Company, cleaned machines, and took monthly inventories.

Having the responsibility of keeping the school facilities in running order, the custodians cleaned the rooms, washed the chalkboards and changed the lights. Their duties extended outside the main building, to the auditorium, the gym and the surrounding grounds, as they cleaned the buildings after school plays, basketball and various other events.

CLASSIFIED STAFF PROVIDE SERVICES

- A) Grace Straler, cashier, made change for Tom Simpkin.
 B) Herb Hardy supervised and assisted the custodians.
 C) Doing the necessary paper work and record keeping were 1st ROW: Lynn Wetzel, Secretary to the Principal and Jean Pekach, attendance secretary. 2nd ROW: Jean Mills, School Treasurer, Marge Wagner, Guidance Secretary.
 D) Serving as cafeteria hostesses (left to right) were Goldie Close, Grace Straler, Genevieve Lane and Shirley Page.

 B) Mr. McNew monitored suspension hall.
 C) Mr. Bonar served as athletic director and taught driver's education.
 D) In his physics classes, Mr. Shrider demonstrated the use of the Van de Graff generator.

TEACHERS ARE HUMAN TOO

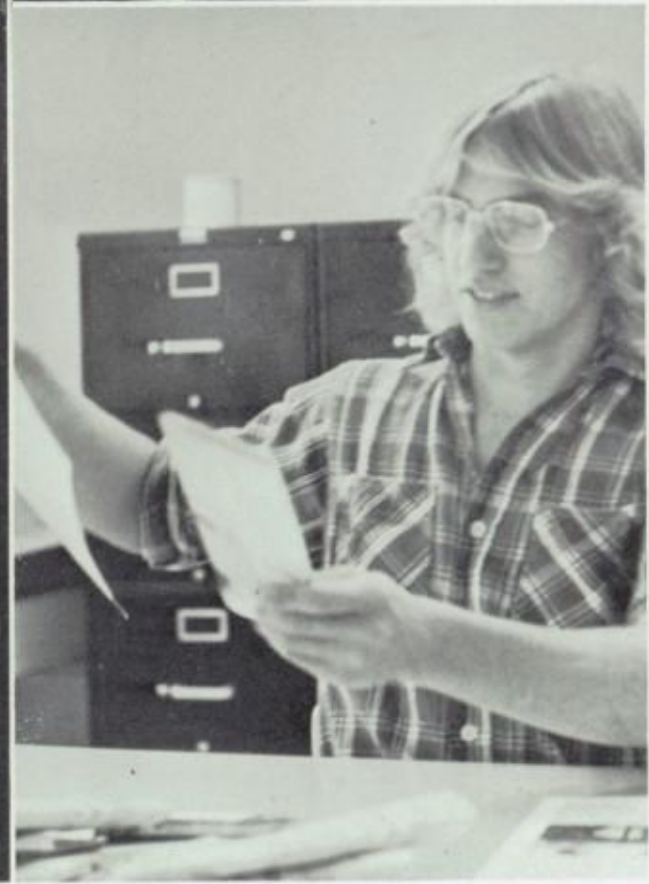

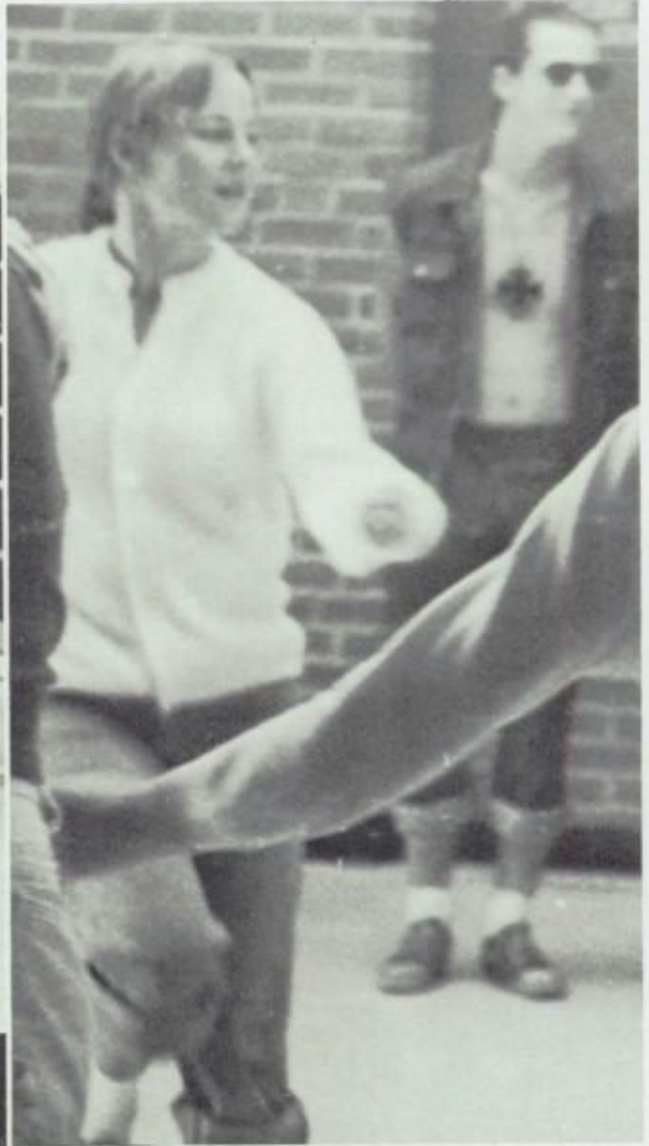

- A) In 1945, Frances Parlin posed with two of her friends after a game of tether ball at Camp Hervida.
- B) Dressed in her formal, Colleen Burns attended the senior prom, which was rather short of man power because of the war.
- C) After learning the many uses of scissors, Kay Cline, styled her own hair a day before posing for her first grade picture.
- D) Karl Hiebel, known as "Teddy" in 1929, received five athletic letters his senior year.
- E) This fancy young lady, Judy Chevront was a majorette at Calhoun County High School in 1963.
- F) As a member of the M.H.S. Class of '55, Mike Siddal's interests included athletics, dramatics and radio and T.V. production.
- G) As a member of St. Mary's W. Va. High School band, Rhoda Triplett posed in front of the building.
- H) Doris Curtis attended Dunbar High school, in Washington D.C., where her friends described her as "amicable."
- I) During her high school years Jean Pekach spent many weekends "boy-watching" at West Virginia University.
- J) As his hair style and shirts suggest, John Spence was a living part of the 1950's.

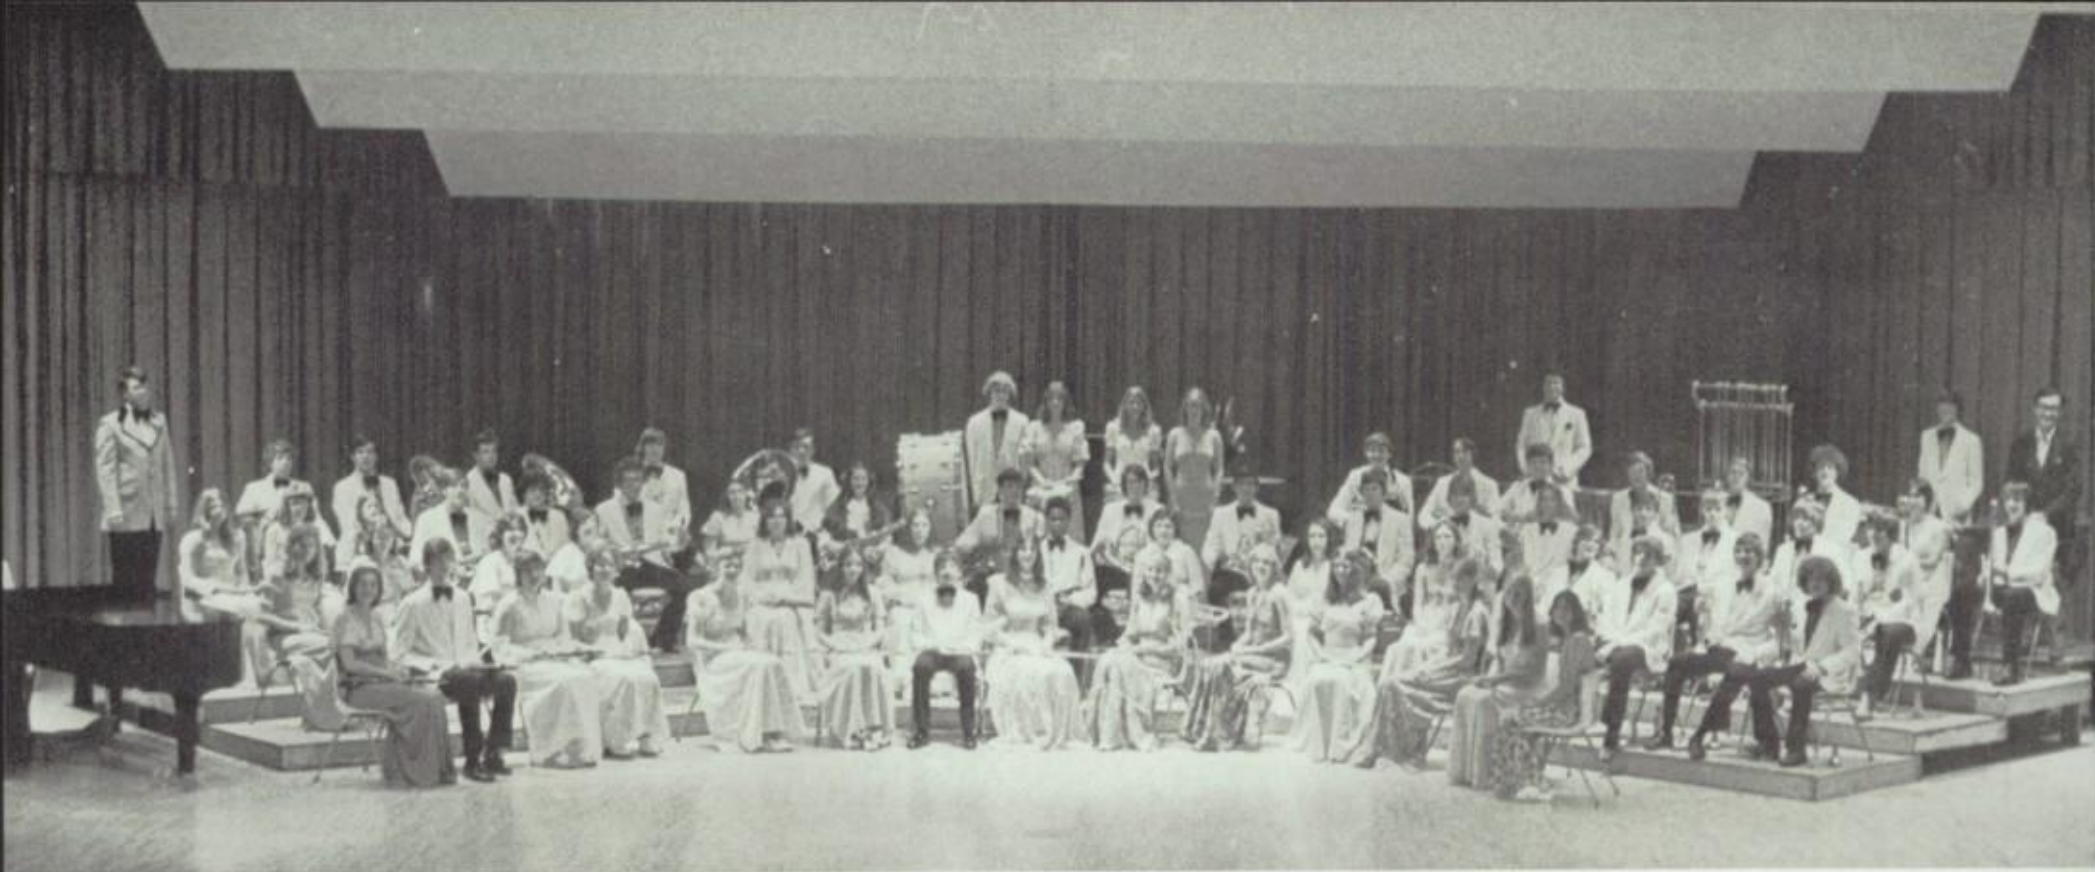

Often students complain that teachers are insensitive robots that know only how to give homework. Actually teachers are very human. Having had a childhood and an adolescence, teachers suffered through many of the same problems that students face today, and participated in many of the same activities. Although hair and dress styles were different, the teachers themselves were much like students today.

After the marching band made their seasonal debut at the Washington County fair parade, they began rehearsals for the Band-O-Rama festival. Since football season followed both these late-summer performances closely, the group worked to perfect their half-time and pre-game maneuvers, which had a new informal look with the addition of "boogie" dance steps. They took these routines to contest in October for the Athens Marching Band Invitational where they placed third among the twenty-five bands competing. At Christmas time, in lieu of the traditional holiday concert, the band recorded familiar carols and popular music for airing on a local radio station, then immediately started preparing for February's Variety Band Show. District contest in Cambridge followed; the symphonic band rated "outstanding" with the judges. After their spring concert in April they continued in competition, this time at state finals where their overall performance merited an "excellent" rating. The band finished the year with performances in the Memorial Day parade and in June graduation ceremonies.

The band's practice sessions on the parking lot became a familiar sight.

BAND GOES TO STATE FINALS

At Athens contest, the rifle corps (Sherry Miller, Steve Dixon, Scott Lanier and Colleen Moore) competed with this maneuver.

Choir members were: Priss Webb, Jan Ritchie, Susan Spicer, Gale Theobald, Steve Dixon, Tim Uppole, Marianne Beck, Debbie Stringer, Colleen Moore, Sue Dixon. Director, William Schwepe.

CHOIR AND ORCHESTRA JOIN TALENTS FOR "MANY MOODS"

Sue Dixon, Steve Dixon, Tim Uppole, Colleen Moore, and Debbie Stringer prepare for the presentation of senior awards at the spring concert.

The choir's first yearly performance, at the Christmas concert, also featured the talents of the orchestra; strings and winds joined them for the finale of the show, a special holiday number, "The Many Moods of Christmas." The ten-voice group then prepared for the annual Minoma Benson concert in February. In March, three members of the choir sang solos before the judges at the solo and ensemble competition in St. Clairsville. The well-received May "pops" concert provided a satisfying end to the choir season.

RIGHT: Trombonist Diana Gugel was one windplayer who joined the orchestra for concerts.

In November, after completing their annual grade school tour to help promote younger interest in the string program, the seven members of the orchestra prepared for a less traditional activity — a trip to see the Cleveland Orchestra in concert. At Christmastime, the full orchestra, which included winds and percussion players from the band, accompanied the choir for a special number in the choir's holiday concert. The orchestra also performed in their own Christmas, winter, and spring concerts; the last, a showcase of American music, was an official Bi-centennial event.

AFS STUDENTS EXPRESS FEELINGS

Dear Friends,

When I started having activities with AFS before I came, I always thought it was really interesting but I never realized how much nicer it was to experience coming to live one year in a different family and community. Since the first day I found it easier to communicate and get along well. I have made very good friends and met really warm people.

This year has been the most meaningful time in my life. I've enjoyed sharing different cultures and experiencing and learning many new things. I have enjoyed each day in Marietta, being a member of a new family, participating at school, getting to know many friends and admiring the change of seasons and weather different from my always warm city.

Thanks to everybody for this happiest 1975-1976.

Dear Friends:

When I found out I was going to Finland, I wasn't really sure if everything would go all right. For one thing I couldn't speak the language and I didn't know much about the country, but I learned fast.

Finnish was the only language that I heard, so I started to pick up a few words at a time and by the end of the summer I could speak some and understand even more. I lived with the Louhivraar's in their summer cottage on a lake. We took "Sauna" every night. "Sauna" is the Finnish word for bath and it is a tradition which they treasure.

I went sailing and waterskiing for the first time in my life and learned so much about the country, the people and myself. It was definitely a memorable trip and I hope to return there some day.

Cathy Wesel

Dear Friends,

When I arrived in the U.S. I didn't know what to expect. The first thing I looked forward to was meeting the family with whom I would spend a whole year.

I was indeed fortunate because I couldn't have found a better family than the Cislars. From the very first moment we enjoyed a very fine relationship. I felt like a real member of the family.

I learned many things out on the farm which I wouldn't have learned if I hadn't come here, like working with horses, and hunting and fishing.

The Americans are the finest people I ever met in any of the foreign countries I've visited. From the first day on, both in school and after school, students came to me and talked with me, which helped me learn the language and to discover a lot of good friends.

By joining the football team I started to love a new kind of sport — football.

I also began to learn the American way of life, including dating. We in Germany don't know your kind of dating and in the beginning it was strange to me. But like everything else I also learned this. One important thing which helped me in this respect was meeting wonderful American girls. They are really a lot nicer and prettier than I had been led to expect.

When you begin to like Marietta, your family and your friends as much as I do, it is hard to say "good-bye" and go back to your own country.

If someone from AFS would ask me "Do you want to stay a year longer," I wouldn't hesitate one second to say "yes."

I shall leave Marietta and America full of ideas that I received here and with the sincere feeling that I have met one of the nicest countries and some of the greatest people in the world. I want to say "thank you" to the students and faculty for making this the most memorable year of my life.

Professor Gilde from Marietta College spoke to them about East and West Germany. Sue Snediker showed slides dealing with her trip to Germany, sponsored by A.F.S., helping them to understand the present-day customs of Germany.

At the Fawcett Center for Tomorrow in Columbus, Ohio, the Russian Club, also with Mr. Whiting as advisor presented a play written by Alice Dye entitled "The Language Barrier" as part of Slavic Day sponsored by Ohio State University. This play won second prize in the category of Russian Drama.

THE ORIGINAL TAKES ON A NEW LOOK

ORIAN DUTIES ARE VARIED

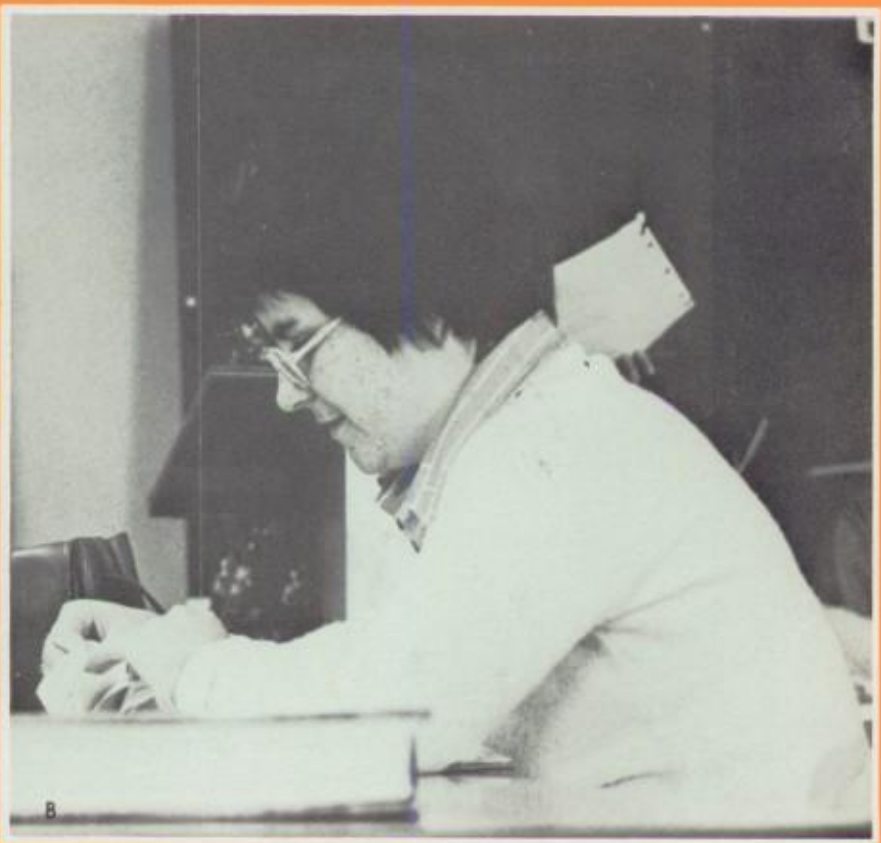

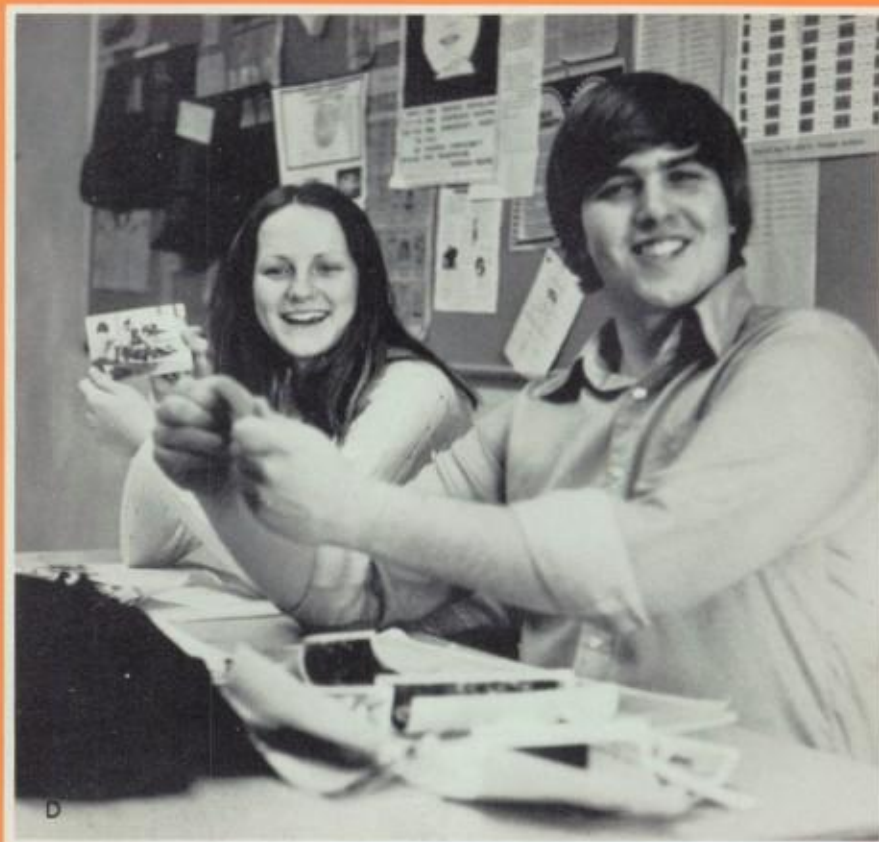

A) The responsibility of coordinating work on the '76 ORIAN fell to advisor Mrs. Kay Cline and coeditors Kim Broedel and Mark Boyd.

B) Even though busy designing the clubs section, Kathy Emerick (right) became the top ad salesman on the staff. Sarah Hill (left) styled division pages and the student life section.

C) Even though photographer Alice Dye couldn't be in 6th period ORIAN every day, she found time to design the cover and artwork throughout the book.

D) Chief photographer Dave Goetge took many of the pictures appearing in the '76 ORIAN.

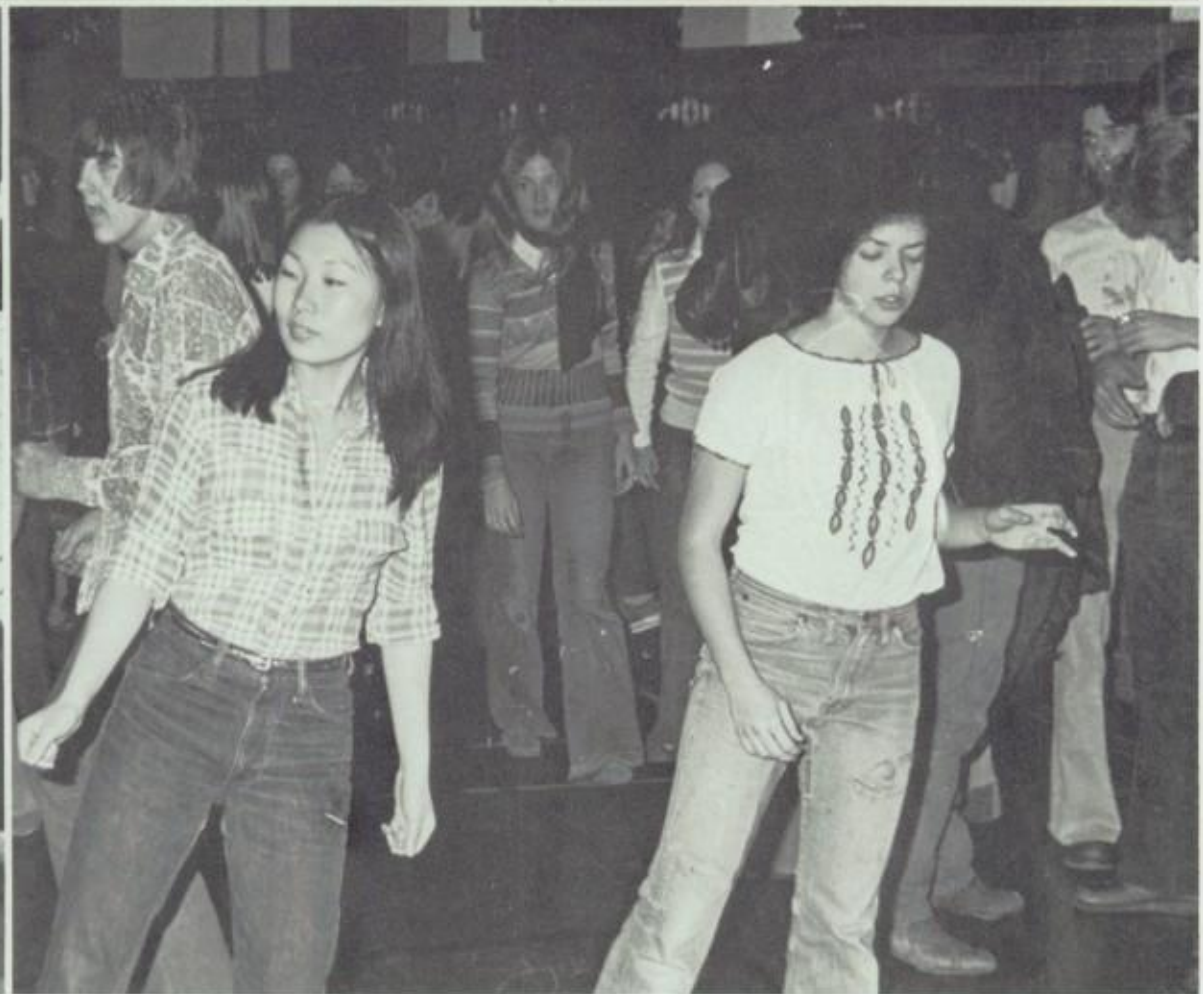

A) Producing the junior section kept Cheryl Kaiser (left) occupied, while Jodi Samples (center) and Bev Castro labored on behalf of sophomores.
 B) Business manager Lynn Laing spent countless hours handling sales money and drawing layouts for the advertising section.
 C) By working many hard hours, Jenny Leonhart and Anita Alden finished both the faculty and senior sections.
 D) In addition to sports, the picture index was a major duty of Sandy Hachurst and Dale Lipscomb.

Rushing to meet deadlines, traversing Marietta in search of pictures, working nights and weekends to finish copy, persuading businessmen to buy advertisements, spending three weeks in harried cafeteria sales — all this and more characterized the efforts of the staff to produce a yearbook that would rank among the best. Whether or not the staff met with success or failure, the book remains a testimonial to their efforts.

Activities

HOMECOMING BRINGS VARIETY OF EVENTS

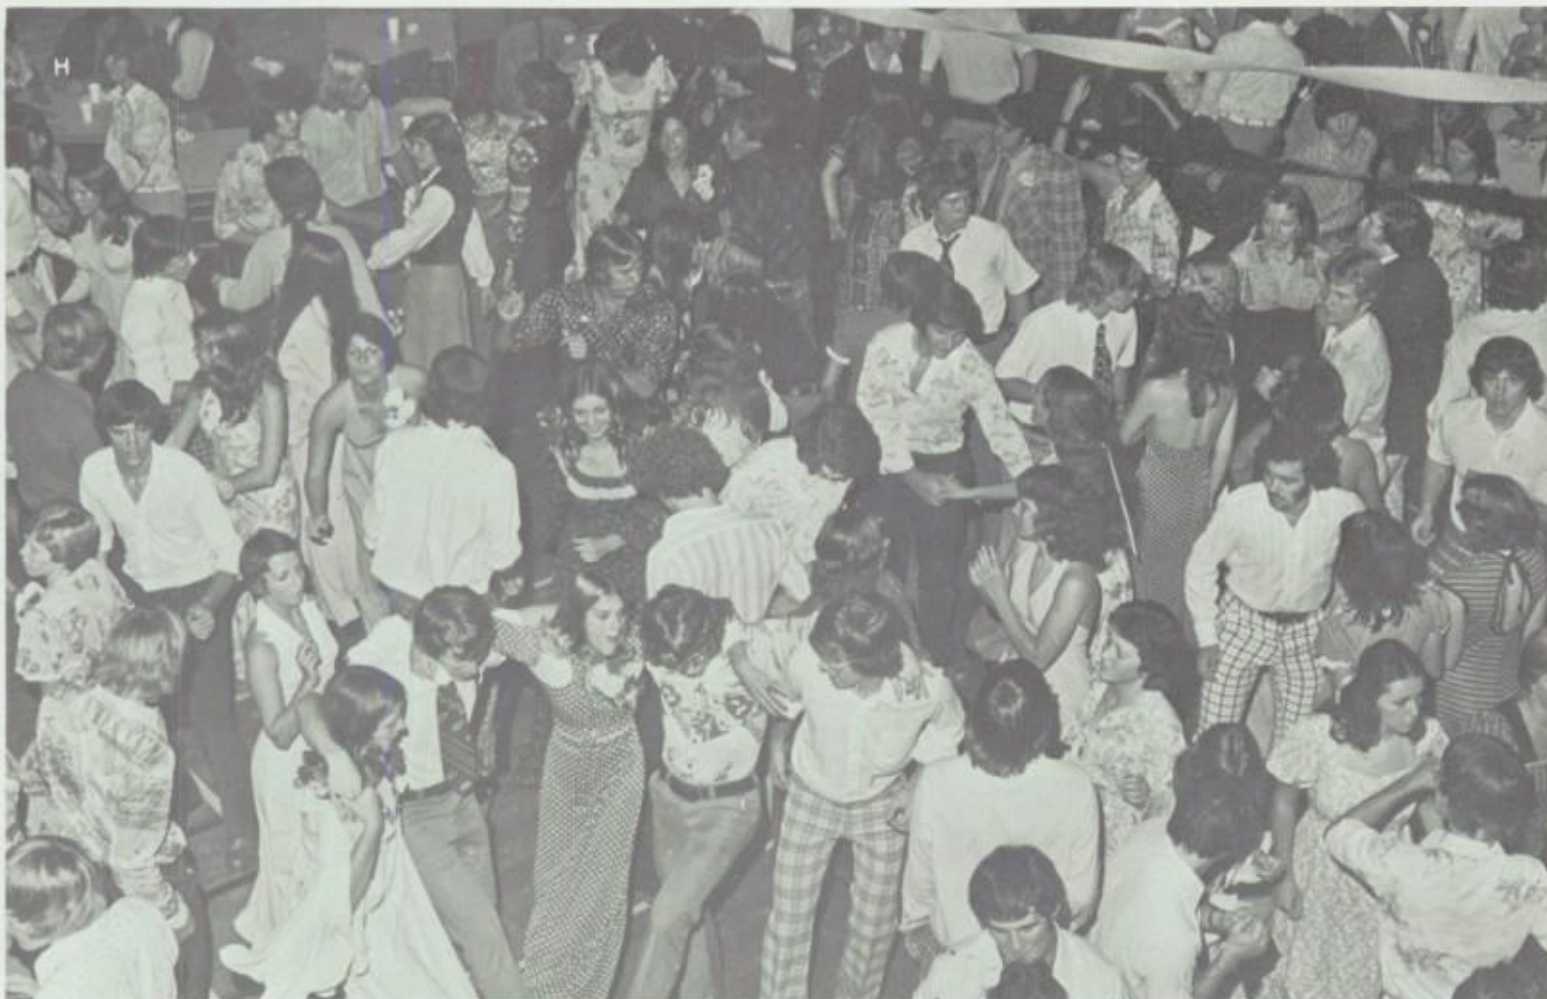

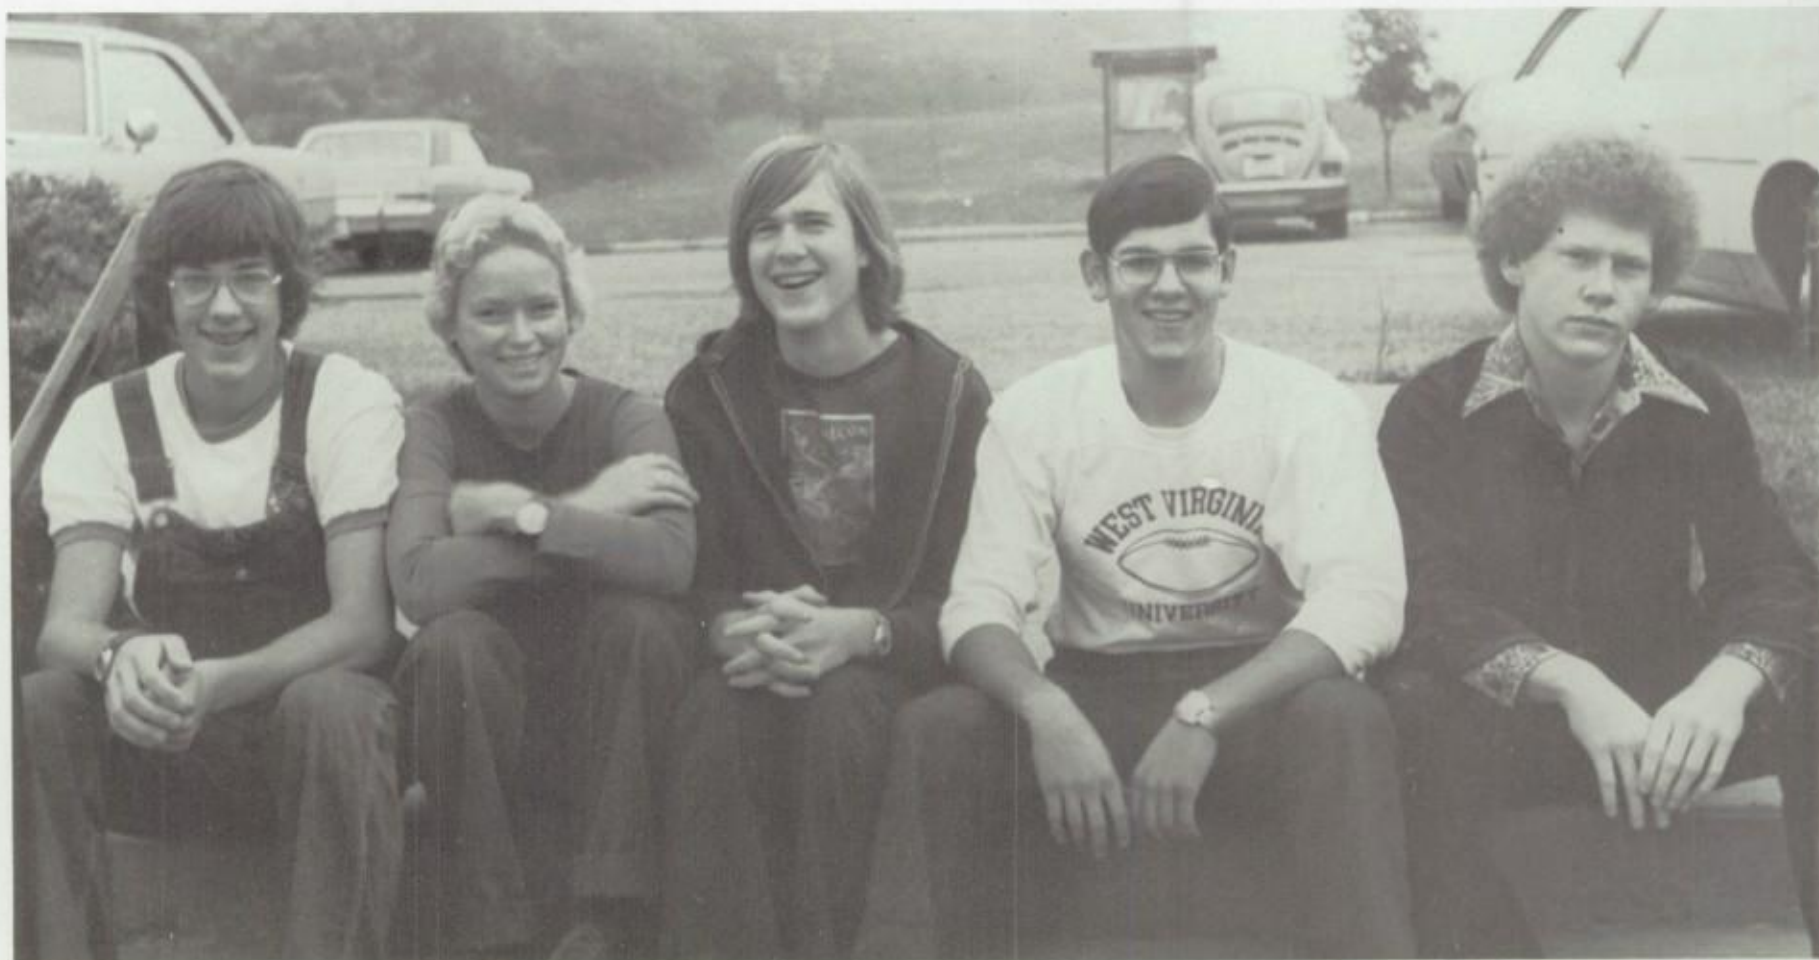

Rain which began early Friday morning and continued late into the night, changed the course of Homecoming activities. Without the accompaniment of the band, wet floats and queen candidates paraded through the downtown area to Don Drumm Field. There in soggy pre-game festivities amid very few fans, sophomores' "Shoot for a Victory" won the float competition. During an even wetter half-time show and again minus the accompaniment of the band, Connie Smith, '74 Queen, crowned Betsy Fredericks queen for '75.

A) Lhan Wepler and Jennifer Wilbanks won the wheelbarrel race for the Junior class.
 B) Queen candidates Kim Rankin,

STUDENTS BROADEN KNOWLEDGE, EXPERIENCE

Summer seminars throughout Ohio, West Virginia and Michigan provided opportunities for students to expand their knowledge in their particular area of interest. At a weeklong camp in Lancaster, Ohio, the band prepared for the fall marching season by spending many hours a day on the field memorizing new routines and music. A Student Council workshop at Ohio Northern University in Ada, Ohio, directed those attending in ways to improve communications among members in their own schools. Held at Ohio University and Capital University, respectively, Boys' and Girls' States allowed the six MSHS representatives to learn firsthand how state agencies operate by electing representatives to serve in a mock government. Jackson's Mill, West Virginia, and Ohio University were sites of journalism institutes that offered instruction in both newspaper and yearbook production. At camp in Hartland, Michigan, the six-member varsity cheerleading squad competed well enough to go on to national competition, held in Michigan about a month later.

Yearbook staffers who participated in journalism seminars were Kim Broedel, Sarah Hill and Mark Boyd.

Cheerleaders Sandy Hayhurst, Lou Ann Moore, Teresa Conelly, Shelly Zide, Susan Nida, and Kim Rankin celebrated after receiving awards.

On the final day of camp, the band marched through the Lancaster park grounds.

AIDES ASSIST ADMINISTRATION

Some students chose to devote their free periods to serving as aides in the principal's office, the guidance office, and the library. Duties of office aides included writing and delivering passes and distributing daily mail to the staff boxes. Apathy hit the senior class play, "Rally 'round the Flag, Boys." Only forty seniors participated in the production. Since few men tried out for roles, director Clark Murphy changed several male roles to suit female parts and cast junior Dan Young in the part of a young army private. In spite of apathy, cast members portrayed citizens of a small town in New England. At the beginning of the play enraged townspeople oppose the building of a guided missile base near their town. However, Guido D'Maggie, the army's P.R. man, convinces the people that his men can help the town by buying property, going to movies, and eating in town. Only small skirmishes between the army privates and local boys over the town girls occur until a ten-year boy sets off a missile. All the townpeople explode indignantly. However, Colonel Thorwald and Councilwoman Goodpasture (Jennifer Zoerkler) solve all local problems and everyone lives happily ever after.

A) Colonel Thorwald (Marianne Beck) tortured Captain Hoxie (Lowell Warden) by placing him in contact with the public.

B) During the town pagent, female colonists took refuge behind the town crier, ten-year-old Danny Bannerman (Martin Prince).

C) Forgetting their part in the pagent, British and Colonial soldiers, Grady Metcalf (Bill Schilling) and Ronnie Jackson (Frank Stanley) fought for the company of Comfort Goodpasture (Kim Broedel).

King John Sands escorted queen Micki Tullius to the traditional dance of the king and queen.

SING OUT, SWEET LAND HAS A BICENTENNIAL THEME

Following a bicentennial theme, the all-school play, "Sing Out, Sweet Land," represented American music from 1776 to 1976. Cursed to sing and dance America's songs, Barnaby Goodchild, the major character, portrayed by Dave Goettge, roamed throughout the United States for over two hundred years. Reappearing throughout the play, Parson Killjoy, played by Tom King, tried to hinder Barnaby's happiness in music whenever possible. Also following Barnaby through time, Priscilla, portrayed by Kim Broedel, tried to convince him to stop his endless roaming and singing and settle down. During the trio's trip through America's history of music, they visited Puritan America, colonial Virginia, the western frontier, the gold mines, a Mississippi riverboat, a train, a city park, and a speakeasy of the 1920's.

TIGERS BLAST UPPER ARLINGTON

On Friday, November 4, 1975, for the first time in history, the Tiger football team upset Upper Arlington 19-0. After seven years of merciless treatment at the hands of the Golden Bears, a Tiger team finally rose to the occasion and shut out the Arlington powerhouse. The win marked a gratifying end to an otherwise disappointing season. Although the Tigers finished 3-7, they were a better team than their record indicated. State ranked Lancaster won by a last-minute touchdown; tough Parkersburg South won on a field goal, and Bellaire scored twice in the last quarter to win 30-14.

Unable to penetrate the tough Athens defense, the Tiger offense bowed to a 14-0 defeat.

A gunshot signaled the start of another Cross Country meet.

With 80 wins and 5 losses, Cross Country ended a most impressive season. For the first time in their history, the team won the C.O.L. Championship. In addition, they became the first C.O.L. champs in any sports since 1967, the first District Champ since 1966, and the first state qualifying team since 1957.

VOLLEYBALL WINS DISTRICT

A time out enabled the team to go over their strategy.

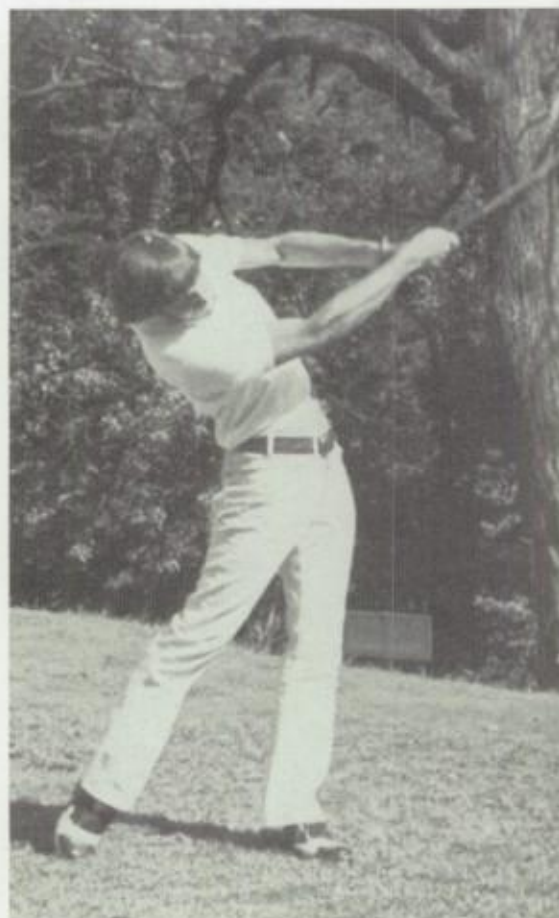

For the first time in four years, the volleyball team went undefeated. After winning the Three Rivers Conference Championship with an 11-0 record, the varsity spikers vollied their way to the regionals with sectional wins over Athens and Jackson and district wins over Logan and New Philidelphia. A loss to Columbus West at the regional tournament ended the long series of victories for the tigerettes.

The J.V. team was also impressive, finishing the season with a 9-1 record.

Wana Rinard sets up a spike for Susan Nida at regionals.

TIGER GOLFERS HAVE DISAPPOINTING SEASON

Paul Smith, team medalist in six matches, had a season low of 37.

Inexperience plagued the varsity golfers. Only two members, Paul Smith, and a transfer student from Washington, and Chuck Engle, had had any experience in competitive matches prior to the 1975 season. In view of this, it was not surprising that the golfers compiled a 2-8 record and finished last in the sectional tournament at Lancaster.

Tom Simpkin (left) qualified for varsity play near the end of the season. Chuck Engle (right) scored a team low of 42 in Marietta's victory over Belpre.

SWIMMERS SET RECORDS

The eighteen member swim team completed their season with five wins, ten losses, a fourth place standing in the COL, and a third place in the OVAC meet. Though the team record wasn't impressive, the accomplishments of individual members were. Co-captain Lowell Warden broke the 100 meter freestyle record, completing the distance in 51.2 seconds. The diving team, though composed of all first year divers, captured the three top places in eight consecutive meets. Diver Rich Wynn broke a team record by earning 209.90 points in competition with Zanesville Rosecrans.

The varsity squad received a fourth place trophy and a ribbon for their skit and pom-pom routine, while the reserve squad received "superior," "outstanding," and "excellent" ribbons for their routines. During the school year both varsity and reserve squads sparked enthusiasm by decorating houses of tiger football and basketball players and by baking them cookies. Throughout the year, in addition to leading the student body both in assemblies and at games, they sponsored car washes and bake sales and sold stationery and spirit buttons to finance the buying of new skirts and future trips to camp.

A) Senior Mike West earned "Tiger of the week" award sixteen times.

TIGERS TIE FOR SECOND IN C.O.L.

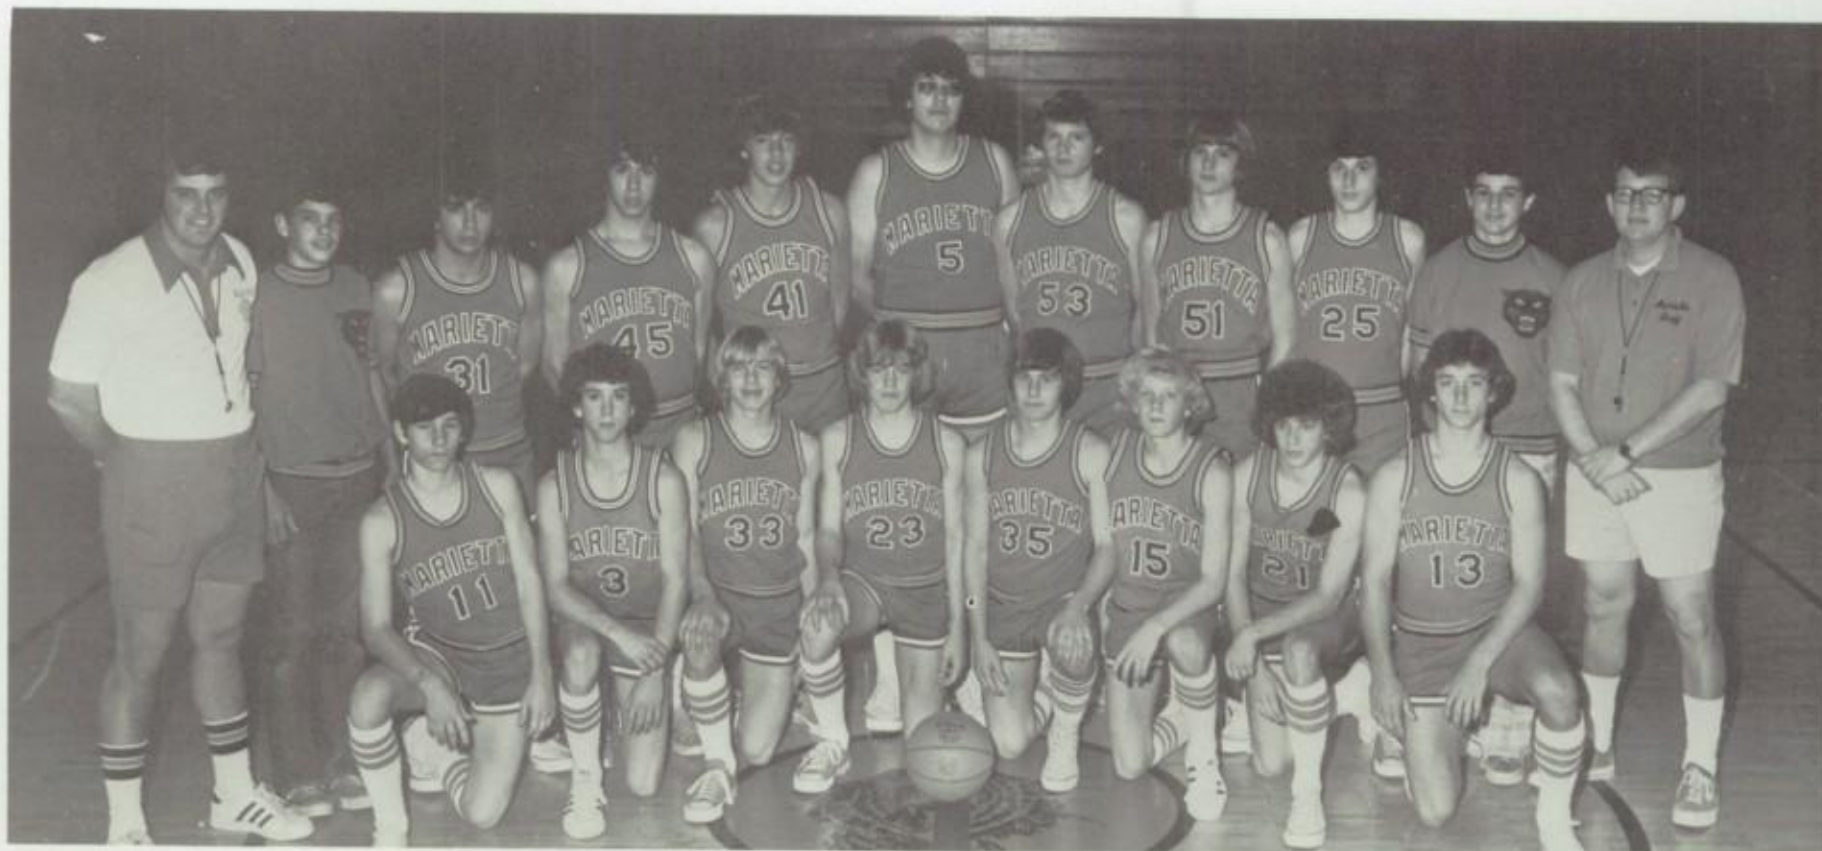

A 52-50 defeat by Grove City was the only obstacle between the Tigers and a first place finish in the C.O.L. The Greyhounds shot a hot 58% from the field and sank several free throws during the overtime to destroy the Tigers' title hopes. Starting the season slowly, winning only one of their first six games, the Tigers came on to win nine of their last eleven games. The Tigers finished the regular season with ten wins and eight losses. During the post-season tournament, the Tigers lost their touch, losing to Chillicothe in the opening round, even though they had beaten the Calvaliers twice during the regular season.

The track team started the season with a fourth place finish at the Ironton Relays. Injuries then led to a series of disappointing performances. CREW FINISHES THIRD AT U.S. SCHOOLBOY

"As good a Marietta crew as I've ever seen," is how Tim Kerr described the Tiger crew. Kerr who coached some of Marietta's tough crews in the 60's, was an official at the 1976 Schoolboy Nationals in Princeton, N.J. "Marietta was the smoothest of all the (varsity) eights. I was really impressed with their bladework." Marietta finished with a time of 4:53 for the fifteen hundred meter course. The varsity finished one boat length behind Ridley of Canada and two lengths behind Holy Spirit from Atlantic City. Marietta's Varsity defeated Upper Canada, St. Andrews from Delaware, and T. C. Williams. Marietta upset the qualifying heats on the day before the finals by coming within a length of Ridley and became one of six boats out of the fifteen competing to qualify for the Princeton Schoolboy Nationals.

The finish at the Princeton Schoolboy Nationals saw Holy Spirit first, Ridely of Canada second, and Marietta third.

Marietta's navy opened its impressive season by placing third at the Braxton Regatta in Philadelphia following Father Judge and Holy Spirit. In the junior varsity event Marietta also finished third.

The Varsity crossed the finish line in third place at the Braxton Regatta.

Good set and outstanding technique made Marietta's varsity the fastest crew ever to stir the Muskingum River.

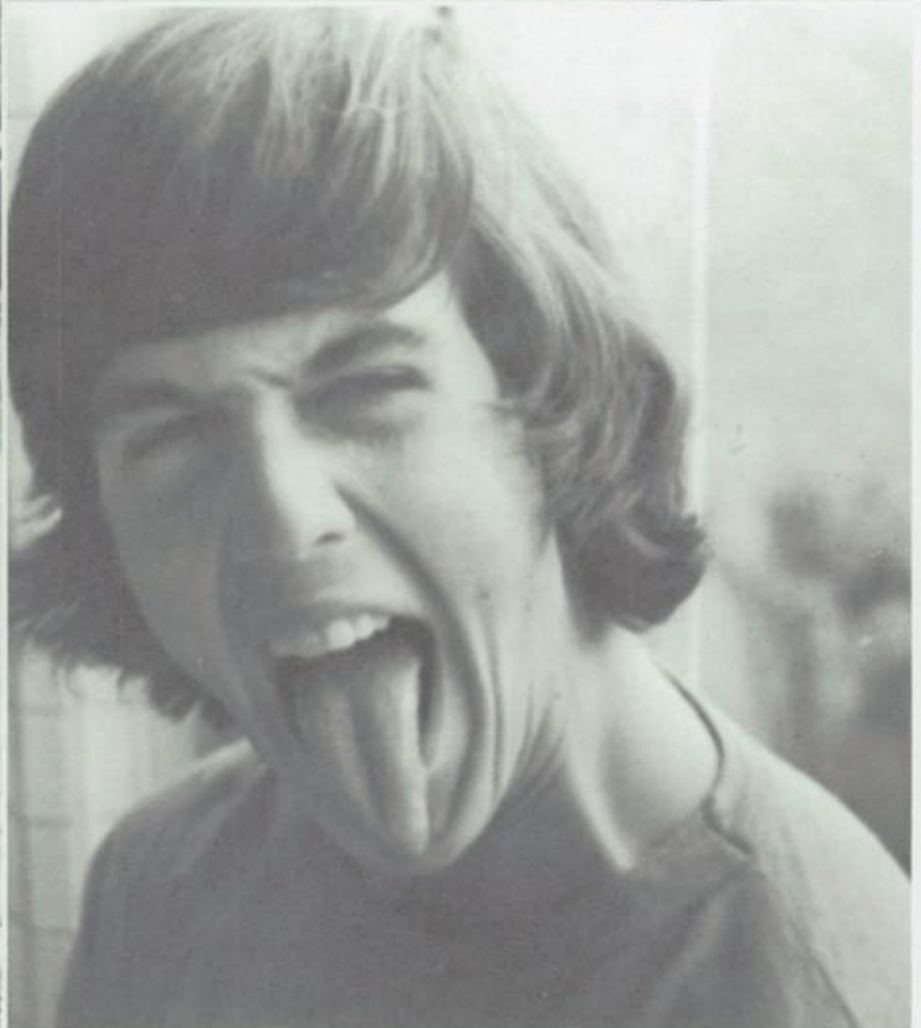

The Junior Varsity finished fourth at the nationals.

The J.V.'s walked on Mt. Carmel as they approached the finish line at the Mid-American Regatta held in Marietta.

T.V. TEAM CAPTURES TITLE

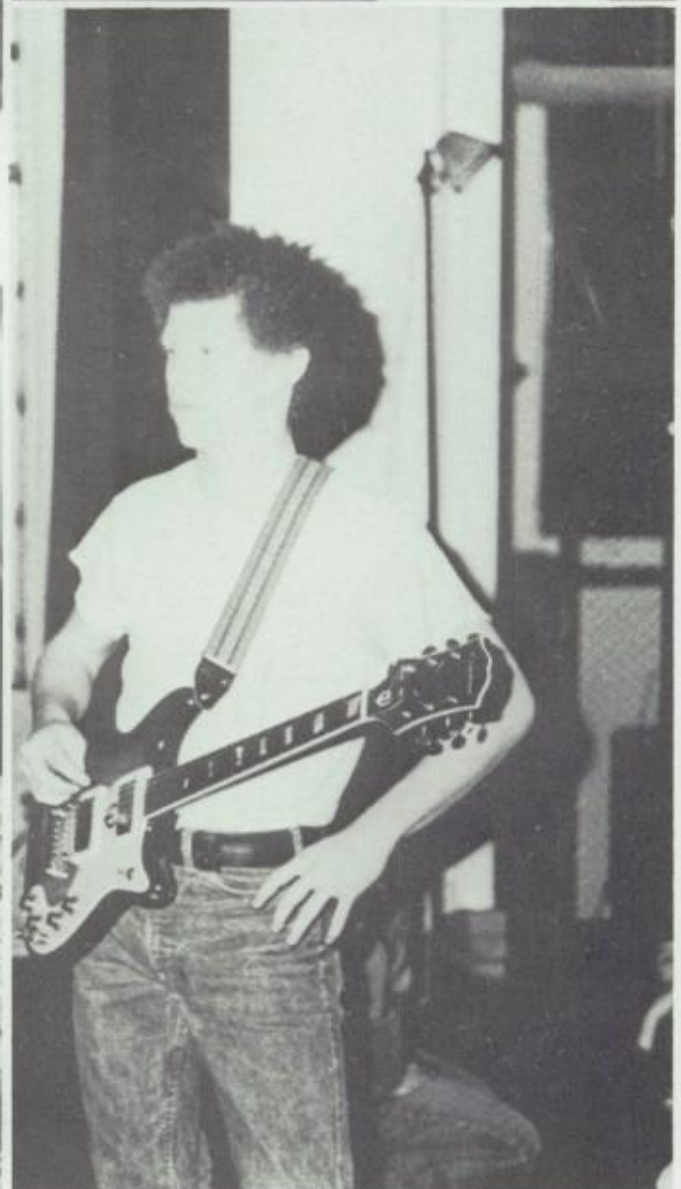

For the first time in seven years, the scholarship team won top honors in T.V. Honor Society. The team, composed of seniors Tim Brown, Brian Carr, Alice Dye, Debbie Heldman, and alternate Becky Weinstock, defeated four teams before reaching the final championship round with Federal Hocking. For their efforts, the team received a five-hundred dollar scholarship to be awarded to a deserving senior for use at any local college.

- A) Marietta defeated Belpre by ten points in the semi-finals.
 B) Harold Miller, team advisor, displayed the winning score after Marietta defeated Federal Hocking.
 C) Captain Tim Brown (left) quizzed Brian Carr before the team's competition with Federal Hocking.

PLAY REQUIRES COMMITMENT

Cast members participated in rehearsals eight hours a week for five weeks before the performance to perfect lines, characterizations, and stagings. Also, during rehearsals a crew consisting of Jeff Owen, Dave Scott, Dana Balfour, and Keith Williams built red, white, and blue sets to resemble an American flag. Between the stars and stripes an aluminum rocket represented the army base.

A) Director, Mr. Murphy, helped Dan Young apply make-up before the opening performance.

B) Keith Williams often had to climb to the rafters to set lights in the correct position.

C) Mr. Reichart (right) assisted Dave Scott (left) in turning on the house lights at the proper time.

D) Jeff Owen helped crew members build and paint sets during rehearsals.

E) At rehearsals cast members learned to portray the townspeople.
